Jewish history stretches from creation to today. This course will focus on the major turning points which shape today's Jewish world, focusing on major intellectual and theological trends, figures, and events from the development of rabbinic Judaism to the twentieth century. Through this, students will come to have a basic understanding of the outlines of Jewish religious, cultural and intellectual history, of the nature of the Jewish experience as a minority culture in the Christian and Muslim worlds, and of the shapes of contemporary Judaism.

TEXTS:

A Historical Atlas of the Jewish People : From the Time of the Patriarchs to the Present (Hardcover)

by Eli Barnavi (Schocken, 1994), ISBN 0805241272

Most additional readings will be posted on the course's Blackboard Vista (BV) site as pdf files or will be available via the internet. Students may access BV via their Agora accounts. Consider the syllabus posted on BV to be your official syllabus as it may well be updated as the semester goes on depending on the interests of the class.

REQUIREMENTS:

- Attendance at class is mandatory. If you know in advance that you cannot attend, please just let Professor Langer know.
- Participation: Your active contributions to class discussions are expected. This includes posting a brief reflection on the readings on the BV Discussions page by 10AM on the day of class. Use these postings to ask questions, to reflect on issues raised in the readings that intrigue you, or as a chance to think more deeply about some aspect of the course. In addition, make sure that what you write demonstrates that you have indeed prepared for class. Prof. Langer will do her best to respond to your reflections, either in class or on the discussion page if the issue is of general concern to the class, or privately by email. Weekly postings will not be graded but will receive feedback. You are also encouraged to respond to your classmates' postings. Your total contributions to in-class and BV discussions will constitute 30% of your grade (20% for graduate students).
- Papers and Exams:
 - Jewish Studies minors and undergraduates:
 - Midterm Project: Write a focused paper of 1500-2500 words that explores further one of the units or a theme that has come up in more than one unit of the first half of the course. You are encouraged to consult on your topic and bibliography before writing your paper. (30% of grade)

- Final: take home, open book final, due Monday December 20, 5PM. (40% of grade)
- Graduate Students:
 - Midterm Project: reflection paper of 2500-3500 words elaborating on a topic or theme covered in the first half of the course. This reflection might be in the form of a proposal for a more elaborate research paper, complete with an annotated bibliography. Other alternatives, appropriate to your specific program and interests, may be suggested. (30% of grade)
 - Final Project: A research paper on a topic relevant to the course. A proposal must be submitted by November 15. Consultation with Prof. Langer on bibliography and scope of the paper is strongly advised, as well as on questions that emerge in the process of writing. Due at the scheduled exam time of the course. Length: 15-20 pages (MA students), 20-30 pages (PhD students). (50% of grade).
